

Blanche Murphy

Blanche Murphy is a lifelong educator who has worked across the state of Alaska and across the spectrum of education. After earning her Bachelor's Degree and Type A Teaching Certification, she served as an Academic Advisor at UAF coordinating the successful Project Exceed in the 80's which helped train dozens and dozens of new Alaska Native Educators at UAF. Since then she has worked at different institutions across Alaska on Early Childhood Education and now most recently as the Education Coordinator for the Tanana Chiefs Conference again working primarily with adult post-secondary Education. Her passions include her family, caring for children in need, and sharing her cross-cultural expertise. She is Aleut, and was raised by Norwegians in a Yup'ik community, and now works predominantly with the diverse tribes of interior Alaska (9 distinct Native languages within TCC's service area). She has served on numerous boards across the State.
