

Jonathan Smith is a Registered Nurse working for Southcentral Foundation at the Alaska Native Primary Care Center in Anchorage, Alaska. He is a Commissioned Officer in the United States Public Health Service. He worked a number of years in the welding industry in Alaska before returning to school. He received several degrees in Nursing from the University of Alaska and has worked in the healthcare field for over 25 years. He has been a mentor for high risk youth at the Alaska Military Youth Academy and believes higher education should be accessible to all Alaskan youth.